

Transitions

Transitions for validations

1. As I started my research I realized how vital it was that I find a credible source to back my research, which is why I am including this article written by...
2. Now you may wonder why this author can write on this topic...
3. This example is significant/vital/noteworthy because it was taken from...
4. To further improve this example, I'd like to show you how this source is able to speak on the subject.
5. Ultimately I chose this example not only because of its value in supporting my cause, but also because the author has immense expertise in the field.
6. The author's credentials are also important to note, as...
7. This author has tremendous expertise/other validating credentials on the topic of...

Transitions for content analysis

1. This information reveals/demonstrates/highlights/illustrates/outlines/exemplifies/shows/proves/further explains/supports...
2. It is important to note from this information that...
3. This information concludes...
4. From this information, it can be determined...
5. This supports the notion that...
6. To further explain...
7. To emphasize...
8. Although some may believe... this quote proves... (for concession)

Transitions to quotes

1. [source]...explains/delineates/states/denotes/notes/asserts/specifies,"..."
2. As stated by [source] (year)...
3. This information is shown through...
4. [Author] proves this statement by saying...

5. This is further supported by [author], who states...
6. According to [author] (year)...
7. An example of this is shown through [author]'s statement...